My dear Mrs Chapman

I learned lately much regret from Mr Remond, who has been here lecturing, that the Abolitionists here not to be present at the New England Convention. Now I know there are many persons who would be pained on such occasion were they admitted to be there. This, in addition to my own strong desire to see them has induced me to write you, and feeling that you Boston folks who have had such frequent opportunities of seeing them, might not realize the importance to our cause of their appearance at such times I thought best to inform you of the feelings of many here with regard to them that you might make some efforts which you otherwise would not to secure their attendance. I was much pleased by the report of the National Society. I have supposed from all accounts that it was about breathing its last instead of which I am rejoicing that it is now convalescent. So onward we go and shall go if we are true.

I am yours in haste
